

5

8. An information displaying method on a mobile communication terminal having plural input buttons in which light of each of said plural input buttons is emitted and is turned off independently, comprising the steps of:

displaying said specified information by a combination of light emitted from each of said plural input buttons.

said specified information is a letter, an Arabic figure, a sign, or a pattern.

plural color light is emitted from each of said plural input buttons.

5

instructing to make specified information display on said plural color light is emitted from each of said plural input buttons.

5

522